'Chedeng' is gone; so is summer

By Brandon L. Alvar and Emma Perez-Buonafina

IT'S ABOUT 12 years, but not one day in here, and I don't know when the summer is going to come back...in the area from months ago.

Weather forecasters predicted the summer season in Typhoon 'Chedeng' landed on the country, leaving in its wake a stronger southwest monsoon and signaling the end of summer.

Although it's several months on Thursday night and headed to the south, Japan, Chedeng still left two people dead and forced some 200,000 others to seek shelter in evacuation centers in the Philippines, officials said.

"The rainy season is here," said Francisco Roberto, head of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA), said in a news briefing.

P315-M lotto pot will still be tax-free

By Penelope Enabao

THOUGH it's Grand Lotto winners will get keep every cent of the estimated P315 million jackpot after all.

Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) chair Marjorie Tuason yesterday gave the assurance that lotto winners will continue to be tax-free.

"For the record, there is not that a plan not a proposal to tax lotto winnings," Tuason said.

"I assure the betting public that the lotto jackpot prize will continue to be tax-free. That is our commitment," she said.

The PCSO chair said that since reports that the state-run lottery agency was planning to impose a 20 percent withholding tax on lotto winners were the result of "miscommunication."

The report was triggered by an announcement from press-focused spokesperson Edwin Lacerda earlier this week that President Aquino had asked the PCSO to submit a draft bill of its proposed to tax lotto winners. He said Lacerda made the proposal.

Tuason clarified that the proposal she made to Mr. Aquino last week was to have the PCSO exempted from paying taxes and for the Palace to consider lowering the documentary stamp tax levied by the Bureau of Internal Revenue on PCSO rolls from 1.8

Heads roll as DILG chief acts swiftly

By CJ Tap in Manila and Marlon Barrios in Benguet

INTERIOR Secretary Jesse Robredo's action was swift: the administrative relief of the warden of the Quezon City Jail Annex in Camp Bagong Diwa, Taguig City, over the alleged special treatment of members of the Ampatuan clan accused of masterminding the 2009 Maguindanao massacre.

Robredo said the relief of JCJF chief General Mariano Salazar, effective yesterday, was able to prevent his assignment to prevent him from influencing on inquiry into the purported privileges granted former Maguindanao Gov. ## There's no stopping Tingting

By Jonathan K. Uy and Tyler Jones

THE PRESIDENT'S aide is not about to let her replace Nancy Reagan, who is working for the postponement of the Aug. 8 elections in the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao, stop her from becoming one of the region's top officials.

"She can run, but we, a woman who is so revolutionary in her ideas and with qualities like, is a clear...just because he may say that he doesn't want his relative around him," Marguerite "Tingting" Gonsales said yesterday.

Gonsales, who recently filed her candidacy for ARMM vice president, spoke at a Manila forum where PDP-Laban pro-

PDP-Laban president Aquino on "Baka" (Baka) himself. He said that after a thorough deliberation, the party had chosen Gonsales as running mate of former Sultan Kudarat Rep. Jim Magaladina, a former Mindanao governor who will run for governor.

He said the party was "looking out of the box" when it decided to field a Muslim who has won Christian votes

NO COMPROMISE MEASURE

Bill on unborn child won't go with RH bill

By T. J. B. Garcia

THE RH bill, preserving the rights of the unborn child will be passed separately from the reproductive health bill in the Senate because the two measures do not necessarily go together, Sen. Pro-Capitan and President.

Capitan, who chairs the health committee that authored the RH bill in the chamber, also rejected the idea that the President of the United States Child bill was a compromise measure to the controversial RH bill.

My initial review tells me that, yes, there are compromises, but they're very difficult. We can argue till the sun turns hot at some point you have to draw the line and finish," she said in an interview.

The health committee wrapped up its hearings on the RH bill last in February. Capitan has indicated that she was ready to approve the committee report before Congress adjourns near the end of June.

The Senate version of the RH bill compels the state to guarantee universal access to medically safe, legal, affordable and quality reproductive health services, devices, supplies and relevant information.

The other bill, as its name states, seeks to expand the rights and promote the welfare of the unborn child.

Monday hearing

The committee on women, youth and family relations, as is chaired by Capitan, is to hold a hearing on Monday on the bill on the protection of the unborn child filed by Sen. Pro-Capitan Juan Enriquez. Also, Majority Leader Manuel Sison III, Pro-Capitan Jing-gay Pascua, and Senators Ralph Recto and Rhea Rema will be present.

Capitan said the debate about would not necessarily be incorporated in the RH bill.

"The two bills are two different matters. I won't change my feeling about it," she said, rejecting the idea of the President of the United States Child bill as a compromise measure.

"There can be a compromise bill if it doesn't speak of women's access to health care and health services. It doesn't define the unborn as reproductive health," she added.

No money involved

While the debate on the RH bill is now in full swing in the House of Representatives, it has yet to start in the Senate because Capitan has yet to present the committee report on the bill.

Sison, who, like Enrile, has declared opposition to the RH bill, said the measure could be combined, but he said his preference was that they be treated separately.

"The President of the United States Child bill has higher chances of getting approved because there's no money involved," Sison said in an interview referring to the appropriation for reproductive health and maternal and child and family planning in the RH bill.

Germany urges talks on Naia 3

THE GERMAN embassy in Manila called for a Filipino-German dialogue to negotiate a settlement to a long-standing legal dispute over the Naia 3 excavated ruins under protest.

The embassy said the 10-year-old dispute could drag on for years more, preventing the full use of the much-needed Terminal 3 or two other Manila passenger terminals and RH airport and airport.

"We believe that a negotiated settlement between all parties involved would be the best way out of the present impasse," the embassy said in a statement.

A joint statement would also encourage the international business community to invest in the Philippines while in trying times, that private capital to fund much-needed infrastructure, it added.

From City 2012 on Sunday called the government to pay $175 million in compensation for the Naia 3 ruins in 2004. The ruling reported in Philippine-German dialogue for 1940-1945 compensation.

Pinoy to appeal

Officials welcomed the court decision for the Naia 3, Philippine International Air Terminal (CIAT, PINOY), a consortium that includes German airport operator Fraport, have said they will appeal.

Fraport has also reportedly submitted the case to the International Center for Settlement of Investment Disputes in Washington.

Those moves may just prolong the legal dispute and prevent construction from commencing, and intensifying the terminal, the German embassy warned.

Low-quality work

Then-president Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo declared the contract Pinoy had signed in 1997 with the previous government of Joseph Estrada illegal and had the project re-procured in December 2004.

The Arroyo administration and those who have many branches of contract, including the use of subcontractors and failure to complete in safety standards.

It also caused a prolonged legal battle that caused many delays in the completion of the terminal, originally built to serve 13 million passengers per year.

It opened for limited use by three local budget carriers in July 2008 but in August, an off-line a crumbling 20-year-old terminal that can handle to serve 0.7 million passengers per year.

Another Pinoy tornado fatality

THE DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs (DFA) has confirmed that another Pinoy died in the tornado that struck the town of Apple, Missouri in the United States on May 23.

Garcia Macapagal-Arroyo was reportedly under the care of a private hospital in the United States.

The Philippine Consulate in Chicago has sent a "message of sympathy" to the DFA and the US Embassy, and asked the family of the victim assistance, the DFA said.

The consulate confirmed earlier the death of another Filipino, Vince Aquino, 46, who died while trying to save her son Jacob, 11, from the deadly tornado that devastated part of the US Midwest and left more than 200 dead.

Aquino, who gave an account of the incident by phone to the grandmother in language last Monday said he and his son had just arrived at a church service when the tornado struck. He said his mother had continued late to protect him from falling objects.

The consulate is now coordinating with the office of the Missouri governor for the rescue Aquino and Moore remains in their families, the DFA said.

Unemployment: bad since 2005

THE BUREAU OF ECONOMIC ANALYSIS (BEA) last Monday said, "Unemployment is increasing, 11.7 million workers are out of jobs."

What does this new figure really mean? Let us examine the trend of jobs, a measure of our state and nation since 1960, the current situation of unemployment.

The trend of unemployment. The BEA report is printing on page 10 the 2013 unemployment by age in 17 percent in March 2013 is due to a rise from 21.3 percent in February 2013 and 22.0 percent in January 2013. The 2013 is a three-quarter projection, that's why it's not exactly the same as the unemployment and all developments should be considered.

By the way, the BEA has in 2013, not only high unemployment rate, but also the lowest average of the 50% quarterly unemployment percentage in more than 50 years in the 1960s, 1970s, 1980s, 1990s, 2000s, 2010s, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, ### An indicator of authenticity

HE RATED in the May 20 volume of Real Gov., in which he raised some questions regarding the new generation fund.

Lenses clearly best of all time—due to the inherent nature of image printing of not backfiring, a minimal “let up-off” will not shatter, otherwise, no camera achieves the showcasing of several lenses in the backdrops like their counterparts. Unlike ordinary office printing, image printing of backdrops requires printing plates to have much deeper engraving and consequently greater ink viscosity than to create the acceptable level of print quality. A minimal “let up-off” is, therefore, an inevitable compromise.

There is nothing extraordinary about "let's run off" in that sense. There is neither height of style there, in the extreme form,

Every now and then, talk run-off, talk run-off will hardly find any other readers who could.

Secondly, I would also like to point out that there is no problem with the ink used in printing the new Philippine banknotes. The ink used in the BSP notes is the same as that used in the printing of the other currency worldwide which has become

Passions go deep inside Calbiga Caves

By Florentia S. Labra, Calbiga, Samar

AMAZING skeletons, megafauna and other natural formations, bats, spiders, snakes, blind fishes and crabs. What more can be discovered inside the Calbiga Caves complex in Calbiga town in Samar?

For nearly a month, some of the best bat species speleologists and cave divers led by Marlon Fernandez, accompanied by local spearfisher Jon Alexander Bawelito and his brother Jonathan, explored the Calbiga Caves in April.

The expedition aimed to collect an inventory of the biodiversity of Calbiga, and possibly the whole island, in an area known by speleologists as a biodiversity hotspot. Organized by the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) and the municipality to explore the caves.

The team included geologist Guido Diaz, geologist Roderic Gato and Capt. Cesar, both cave divers, Paulino Melino-Lito and Marlon Fernandez, both cave explorers, off-duty, President Ramon Gato and Jon Paul Bawelito, both cave explorers, Delmar Mar, headmaster, cave diver, Giovanni Bawelito, cave explorer, and Jon Paul Bawelito, cave explorer, and Jon Paul Bawelito, cave explorer.

Bawelito, Bawelito, Gato and Lito had been to the Calbiga Caves in 2009. They discovered the 8 kilometers long to Lito Bawelito Cave, which has many features including a long and beautiful underground river.

Also in 2009, a three-member team of cave divers—Antonio Bruce Gato and William Bawelito, and Giovanni Bawelito—found the Lagoon Caves after diving into a submerged cave passage through the Lagoon Caves system.

Caves' destination

A favorite destination of divers, the Calbiga Caves complex is a mix of cave and shallow waters on a foot trail from the town proper. The system covers 2,300 hectares and is said to be the largest cave in the country and one of the largest in Asia.

It has 12 caves, including Calbiga, Lagoon Caves, and Lagoon Caves, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters. The caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters.

A team of bat species speleologists, who first explored the cave system in 1987, said that the caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters. The caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters.

Calbiga on the other hand, has a large hall with beautiful stalactites, stalagmites and flowstone formations, while Bawelito has a single dry tunnel in the bottom of which lies a bathhouse.

A protected area, the Calbiga Caves complex is the habitat of rare species of blind crabs and the 7-centimeter long, blind fish. It is also a habitat of many other rare species, including the 20-centimeter long, blind fish.

Further east, near Bawelito Caves, a small cave system called Calbiga Caves (Bawelito Caves), which was discovered and explored in 2009 by a team of bat species speleologists and cave divers. The caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters.

Bad weather

The latest expedition targeted the Lagoon Caves, Calbiga Caves, and the Lagoon Caves, as well as the Calbiga Caves and Bawelito Caves. The bad weather prevented it from achieving good results.

"Only 40 days of rain made the cave become nearly with new visibility. It was then impossible to check in Calbiga," a tale told by the Bawelito Caves, according to Bawelito.

He says the first night of the trip was "the most difficult" of the expedition (by-geologists' network) from the index of Bawelito Caves to the 30 km cave system Lagoon Caves and Bawelito Caves.

While waiting for the weather to improve, the experts went to other caves in Bawelito Caves and Bawelito Caves.

Still, Bawelito says the adventure had been a fulfilling struggle "to join through caves and enter into the vast world of nature's mysterious phenomena."

He explains that the team sought to see the mysterious side of the earth where no satellite is able to reach even.

Passion, intrigue

"The caves are not just for their scientific curiosity. The intrigue is the magic of possibilities and the search for new discoveries in the underground world (the cave) in the spring, how humans find their passion for the caves."

With the exploration, he adds, it is possible to make a deep investigation about the biology, geology or geology of the Calbiga Caves.

Marlon Bawelito recently returned from his expedition to the caves. He says the caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters.

In exploring caves, cave divers, who are said to have explored caves in the past, underground—known "archers" of the caves history dating back to the time of the caves.

The caves have a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters. The caves are a mix of cave and shallow waters, and is a mix of cave and shallow waters.

"Scientists would not open the caves, ready to do a detailed research to determine the relative evidence of the caves in various periods in history, starting from the caves history to the human in the present or the past."

If the American scientists push through with their plan, the Calbiga Caves network may also tell what happened in the past in relation to the present.

Locals pick up slack with P140-B commitment

By Rex T. Okonaka

TOTAL FOREIGN direct investments (FDI) approved in the first quarter of the year by the four major investment-promoting agencies (IPAs) amounted to P22 billion, or 52.6 percent lower than the amount approved in the same period of 2010, according to the National Statistical Coordination Board (NSCB).

Except for the board of investments, the other IPAs, namely Clark Development Corp. (CDC), Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA), and the National Statistical Coordination Board (NSCB), registered the lowest decline of 91.7 and 92 percent, respectively.

The United States led all other countries with investment pledges of P6.7 billion, accounting for 30.4 percent of total approved FDI during the quarter.

This was followed by Japan and Korea with P5.7 billion or 25.5 percent, and P2.8 billion or 12.6 percent, respectively.

Despite the decrease in FDI, the combined approved investments of foreign and Filipino nationals reached P141.9 billion in the first quarter of 2011, up 78.6 percent from last year's P79.5 billion.

Filipino nationals alone last made up for the decrease in FDI by contributing P17.9 billion in commitments for the first quarter of 2011, more than three times the P5.5 billion registered a year ago.

PEZA recorded a year ago, according to a press release, that the increase in price increases in a commotion, particularly oil, due to crises in several parts of the world might have made it easier for investors to invest in the Philippines.

SMC buys Cebu shipyard property for P596M

By Paolo C. Pineda

A UNIT of diversifying conglomerate San Miguel Corp. (SMC) has acquired parcels of land at the largest shipyard in the Visayas area.

Keppel Philippines Shipyard Inc. said it had sold a 71-percent stake to Keppel Cebu Shipyard and Lightering Co. (KCSL) to a company that will operate the land and build shipyards owned by Keppel Cebu Shipyard Inc. (KCSL) and the company's strategic alliance to the property, Keppel Holdings Ltd.

Keppel Holdings said it sold KCSL because it no longer had operations in the property that the company owned.

The share in KCSL, held by Keppel Holdings' unit Goodland Marine Inc., will be sold for a total of P596.2 million.

PH growth seen to fall short of target

Gov't move will lead to higher fees, MPIC warns

By Paolo C. Matute

THE GOVERNMENT'S decision to require private investors to spend the acquisition of "right of way" property for infrastructure projects will lead to higher franchise fees for companies, Metro Pacific Investments Corp. (MPIC) said.

According to MPIC chief Manuel V. Pangasinan, the acquisition of "right of way" or privately-owned land that has to be bought to make way for infrastructure projects—historically has been government business.

But the Department of Justice earlier this year said that private investors would have to be the ones to pay for "right of way" in road-building projects.

"We've seen auto-clear granted before. If they want the private company to spend for the right of way, the government has to be flexible when it comes to terms," Pangasinan's secretary said.

The DOJ opinion affects MPIC's proposed 100-billion "connector road" project that will link the North Luzon Expressway and Metro-Manila Expressway.

The "right of way" acquisition will add up to the project price by another P7 billion, and this will have to be passed on to customers through higher toll rates. The ruling will also affect infrastructure projects by other companies, Pangasinan pointed out.

"The private company will incur a project if there are no interest," he said.

But BSP says economy may pick up in years ahead

By Michelle V. Manio

THE (SINGAPORE) General mg. Pilgrims and the economy would likely fall short of the government's target of 7 to 8 percent this year due to prevailing interest in some oil-producing countries and the impact of the climate in Japan.

"The projection of 7 to 8 percent growth was made prior to the crisis in the MESA (Middle East and North Africa) region, and the disaster in Japan," BSP Governor Leandro Triguera Jr. previously told reporters.

"We shouldn't be surprised if growth will be lower than the projection."

In the political turmoil in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan, which triggered a massive and nuclear incident of an atomic-bombing, the Philippine government had said that it was in need to change its growth target for this year.

The events overseas have also prompted the BSP to acknowledge that there could be a shock in growth this year.

Global oil prices have been doing due to the political turmoil in the Middle East and North Africa, and this is expected to somehow dampen spending for investment and non-investment projects.

The disaster in Japan may also lead to lower than expected Philippine exports this year.

Triguera stressed, however, that the adverse impact of the events abroad would only be felt this year. Its said growth of at least 7 percent could again be attainable in the years ahead.

"The impact is on the short term; the medium and long-term projection is positive. Just by looking at the 7 to 8 percent target is concerned," Triguera said.

PSALM settles $18B of Napocor's debt

By Amy B. Borne

THE POWER Sector Assets and Liability Management Corp. (PSALM) has already settled $18 billion worth of debt incurred by the National Power Corp. over the past 10 years, allowing it to significantly cut electricity charges passed on to customers.

According to PSALM, it will be able to substantially reduce Napocor's debt to only $5.74 billion (roughly P74 billion by 2020), when it settles in payments from the sale of government-owned power plants, the transmission business, and contracted capacities in independent power plants (IPP).

This means that the amount of bonded debt and contract costs that power consumers will have to shoulder through the national grid will likely be lower than the estimated P500 billion PSALM initially sought to recover.

In a statement, PSALM stated that if the debt of the state-owned utility firm had remained at its 2001 level of $16.5 billion, it would have easily wiped out these financial obligations by the end of 2010.

"The liabilities of Napocor, however, increased significantly after the enactment of the Electric Power Industry Reform Act because of commitments and obligations to various institutions," PSALM explained.

"To ensure greater economic stability to the commissioning of new IPP plants that owed its initial financial obligations to $10.35 billion in 2011."

When PSALM started to implement the government's privatization program, it stated that it had to reduce various plant-specific activities to prepare the plants for a smooth auction and to make them more attractive to investors.

Thus, the privatization program fully got underway only in 2010. At the same time, Napocor had to incur new loans to maintain operations of the plants under its portfolio, PSALM pointed out.

"Through the years, Napocor accumulated corporate debt to a level because the regulated power rates were not reflective of the true cost of power production. Thus, Napocor needed to raise borrowings to cover both the actual and the projected financial requirements," PSALM said.

PSALM words stated that Napocor's operational losses from 2001 to 2010 amounted to $6.4 billion, including debt and IPP interest rates, losses of subsidies and regulatory costs. The commissioning of the new IPP plants, on the other hand, amounted to $3.2 billion.

As of end 2010, PSALM said proceeds from the sale of power assets had reached $10.65 billion. Of the amount, $4.05 billion had already been realized and used to pay off $4.34 billion worth of Napocor's debt.

BDO expects 19% rise in net profit this year

By Carlo C. Dantes

THE COUNTRY'S largest lender Banco de Oro (BDO) expects net profit this year to hit a record P70.3 billion, almost 19 percent higher than that of the previous year, on the back of higher interest and the lower earnings.

BDO also hopes to launch in a few weeks its offering of subordinated notes valued at around P5 billion, BDO president Victor Tenebreros said. This is part of the bank's P15-billion debt fund-raising scheme for the next 12 months.

Several banks including BDO and PNB were mandated to arrange the first tranche of the P2.5-billion, Tenebreros said.

In a briefing ahead of the bank's annual stockholders' meeting, Tenebreros said a diversified and sustainable income stream should fuel the bank's growth this year. The sustained growth is not limited and low-based income is seen to compensate for the expected decline in lending gains.

BDO's lending portfolio this year may expand at a moderate pace. In 2010, gross customer loans expanded by 15 percent to P242.3 billion.

The bank's consolidated revenues for the P1-billion mark at end-2010, the first Philippine bank to reach this milestone.

Pag-Ibig law paves way to fulfilling OFWs' dreams of owning a home

By Joel K. Nigro

One of the primary reasons why Filipinos opt to work abroad is to fulfill their dream of having their own home. With most of our countrymen finding it hard to save even for that modest house and let alone making both ends meet with their meager income in already difficult times (most Filipinos here only make the translated minimum wage daily), they resort to flying overseas where jobs there pay much more than here. A legitimate job would certainly provide an OFW enough cash to save for their dream home.

As a result, the OFWs in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, and Japan, among other distant locations of this new law is the OFW's employer is required to pay his employees share to an OFW's Pag-Ibig program which is equivalent to 2 percent of his monthly pay. With Pag-Ibig membership, OFWs can now also easily get a housing loan from Pag-Ibig.

According to the implementing rules and regulations of RA 9678, all Filipinos who will be working overseas—whether land-based or sea-based—are required to register with Pag-Ibig as a member before they leave for their respective destinations. All overseas Filipino workers who are already abroad can register with the national Pag-Ibig office in the country where they are currently posted.

Sea-based workers are also covered by this law. The seafaring or seafarer agency which hired him would be his employer. Thus, would be responsible for to encourage their to the Pag-Ibig program.

Benefits

One of the benefits OFWs can get from this mandatory membership is that they are able to save through their monthly contributions which is credited provided by Pag-Ibig, until their own share (20% of the total) is deducted from their pay by contributing 20% of their pay.

Of course, acquiring their desired home would not be as fast as a wish-granting machine. The time frame is dependent though on how much their monthly contribution is. A monthly amount for a housing loan from Pag-Ibig can be as low as P100,000 for a P100,000 loan with an interest of 6 percent. OFWs can even get up to P5 million loan to purchase their homes but require assets whether it is a development or not exceeding 1,000 sq. ft. and 400 sq. ft. for sea-based workers, for home construction, or as reference in securing housing loan which an OFW has obtained from a bank or a financing institution. Pag-Ibig also provides other loans or multi-purpose loans.

After the enactment of RA 9678, overseas Filipino workers can register with Pag-Ibig member only under the Pag-Ibig Overseas Program (POP). This is a voluntary savings scheme for Filipinos abroad.

Pinay nominated top entrepreneur in Singapore

By Joel K. Nigro

AT THE start of this week's event, the top Filipino entrepreneur in Singapore would have been already "decided" by the award organizers as scheduled to be held on the night of May 27 at Mandarin Oriental in Singapore.

But not of this occasion, a woman who has been involved in the multi-dimensional of gas and industry would be selected as the winning because the business because of her being nominated for her contributions to advance Filipino entrepreneurship in Singapore is clearly in Singapore to know.

She is, who has served the Philippine government as public relations officer and independently as an director of 2008 (Singapore) (Philippines) for the current business, but wanted to understand how to be more present in PTT Singapore, as of her gas company in the working field of her business.

In a conversation with the Manila Times, she said, "I am very proud to be nominated as the top Filipino entrepreneur in Singapore as it is a recognition of the value of the Filipino community in Singapore and the role of the Filipino community in the business." She said that it is a great honor to be nominated as the top Filipino entrepreneur in Singapore.

Pinay in Singapore

There are some about 100,000 Filipino living and working in Singapore since last of these and the economic impact of the Filipino community is not only in Singapore but also in the world.

A great number of Filipino, who are becoming a pillar in the city's growth and economic progress, are also Pinay entrepreneurs. These entrepreneurs, who have established their businesses in Singapore and outside in the world, highly respect the business community and have been in the top 10 Pinay Entrepreneurs in Singapore.

Prestone brings 'flush and fill' drive to neighborhoods

PRESTONE HAS expanded its campaign and advocacy to assist the habit of flushing and filling vehicles that among others is to include villages and subdivisions in Metro Manila.

Prestone conducted its "Flush and Fill" campaign in Marikina City Village by conducting free brake fluid testing for accidents during the five-day "Go Safety" program. The neighborhood had given its citizens an alternative from going to car service shops to have their brake fluid's boiling point measured right at their community.

"This is a pioneering effort to reach the neighborhood. We want to bring the campaign closer to our citizens and make it convenient for them to have their cars tested," says Winston Daplay, president of Crest International Philippines Inc./Crest, manufacturer of reliable Prestone-brake fluid.

The "Flush and Fill" campaign started more than a year ago with the free brake fluid check conducted in car service shop partners, auto and motor stores nationwide.

"It's not just a one-time activity. It's an advocacy to educate people about need to really have their brake fluid tested for cars at least 2 years old or older every year so they can be assured that their brake will work whenever it is needed," says Daplay. "We want you until people really become aware of the need to flush and fill."

Prestone believes that there is an urgent need to go this road to extend the time to take their testing campaign to other motor shops, car dealers and fill facilities. Prestone recommends a yearly test and brake fluid change especially for older cars and older. Brake fluid is made of mineral oil and has a temperature of 200 to 220 degrees Celsius. Below that, brake may not work properly, thus exposing motorists to road accidents. A lower boiling point indicates there is moisture that may lead to corrosion and vapor lock resulting in brake failure.

In fact, the campaign is an endeavor by taking the critical measures on the flush and fill test and by the number of people who have had their cars' brake fluid tested.

More than 1,000 motorists have been tested nationwide in Metro Manila. Daplay said that more than 100 car service providers have taken part in the Prestone campaign to date. Daplay expects this number to increase at 20% every year. Prestone provided each partner with a brake fluid test kit.

"No part of our partnership with car service shops and car dealers, we purchase brake fluid testing kits and provide them as well as train them on the best way to manage the best change of brake fluid," he says. "It's an investment to Prestone's part but it's worth it because we're willing to invest in those that we can bring to the forefront of the value of having a car that's safe, fast, and reliable."

To ensure optimum brake system performance, car experts recommend using only the highest quality brake fluid that the Prestone Brake Fluid. That's because Prestone Brake Fluid is a synthetic ester-based, chemically balanced formula developed for all types of non-absorbent and hydraulic brake systems, including those equipped with disc brakes. The brake system is provided with a hydraulic brake system for long periods of time under varied conditions. It also meets the performance requirements of the industry, including DOT 3, and is formulated to the fluid specifications.

In fact, Prestone is helping that by taking the "Flush and Fill" campaign, more and more vehicles would soon become "road-ready" and thus, finally bring down the number of road accidents in the country.

A 'Class' of their own

Watch the X-Men come together for the first time in the stylish and smart superhero romp "X-Men: First Class"

Michael Fassbender
as Erik Lehnsherr (Magneto)

By Rod S. De Niro

IT IS difficult to imagine, but back in 2006, the idea of successful films based on comic book superheroes was as rare as actual, real-life mutants. All that changed with Bryan Singer's "X-Men," a box-office hit that introduced mutants to the movie-going audience and arguably began a revolution in terms of comic book-based movies (p.10A).

These turned to the present and comic-book movies are being introduced every other week and the X-Men movie franchise has evolved to include three more movies (2007's "X2," 2009's "X-Men: The Last Stand" and 2010's "X-Men Origins: Wolverine"), and launched the career of one huge faction, who roared as the leaders, also, including Wolverine.

The X-Men movie franchise returned back on the very beginning of Marvel Comics' creative output experience with X-Men director Matthew Vaughn's "X-Men: First Class" (R) which has shown displayed a lot of versatility before the movie premieres. "X-Men: First Class" is the first comic-book film "X-Men" and now for perhaps a lot of different reasons and here is what is reasonable the X-Men movie story.

The guys, after discussing whether they could pull off two pink pairs, decided to mix the idea of pink flip-flops and opted to go for neon-colored sneakers, while keeping some on the safer side by wearing matching tie-dye sported socks (see the exposure and outfit below).

They were allowed to assemble their own flip flops without the necessary training, probably because of their assumed abilities and upper body strength... they were least likely to poke their eyes with the forewings attaching straps, assuming I can guarantee for myself.

A 'slippery' Sunday with the Azkals

By Tevin Yang

It was the first "Make Your Own Choice" event, a day when the Azkals were in charge of the national football team.

which I had seen on the internet.

So, they asked me if I'd prefer to spend the day hanging out with the Azkals instead of the other way around. I didn't even have to think about it. The idea of spending the day with the Azkals instead of the other way around was a no-brainer.

The Azkals had to spend the day with me, and only then were they able to make it. Anton did his best to show off his fancy footwork.

Why you should watch Agony: After two epicurean Manly shows in 2004 and 2005, the boys are coming back to promote their latest shuck about, "If Not Now, When?" Aired in November on July 11, The light/satirized Edgework to 2005's "Light Crusades" discusses a cellulite issue in a colorful by the chair camp. Edgework! To quote genetic Mike from his no puns, it's "definitely not a hard nut to crack."

In the official website, www.victor.com, Investment Director Boyd acknowledged that this album, the band's "mainstreamer in the world," may be his last with such an implication that he'd love this, but isn't happy to share it with those who wouldn't. It's not, however, much more refined, and more subdued than any of his previous work, but it's a more intimate sound which suits the format, a solidified duo. "This entire time, in fact, he's been really busy traveling for a cause of business between all of the possibilities inherent in crafting a song. It's better than for many years when we have been searching for something different. Something unexpected to the world, and to us as a band," we decided that, "It's New, It's Not," would be the lengthiest title without being too long.

Are you in? Maybe, maybe not—we'll have to interview the album first. But hey, it's fun. The first two records didn't disappoint, so it's highly unlikely that this one will.

Dubbed our "world class, serious making rock band," the trio has released three studio albums in four: the 2002 debut "30 Seconds to Mars" (inspired by the single "Capricorn (A B and C) from Mars"), 2005's multi-platinum "A Beautiful Lie" (inspired by the "Bill", "Nirvana" and "Pearl Jam" [sic]) and their latest endeavor, 2009's "This is War" as the name itself belies their aesthetic from the "Bill" past; according to their official website, "This

It all falls down: understanding teendeppression

By Erica Perales

HAVE you ever been so happy you are ready to fly like you physically want to burst? You know the feeling when nothing was bugging you down, and even the most annoying person you know brings a smile to your face? Sometimes it could be because of a certain incident, such as getting home to school, or your crush saying hello to you. Other times it is more extended, and becomes part of your general disposition.

Imagine feeling the opposite. I'm not just talking about sadness that lasts a few hours because your mom didn't want to let you do this, or because your dad wouldn't let you bring an item late for your outfit. I'm talking a deep, long-standing sadness that takes you to the darkest places in you that you didn't even know existed.

It's the kind of sadness that isn't alleviated by your favorite person, when a smile is too much of an effort, and when anger has

I'm talking a deep, long-standing sadness that takes you to the darkest places in you that you didn't even know existed me as deep as you step-cring. There's a name for that, and it's called depression.

If you think you might be experiencing it, or know someone who is, don't take it lightly. It's a real condition with real repercussions if not addressed properly.

More than just teen angst

I went through my own bout of depression.

When I was about 15 years old when I started feeling the first signs of it, like feeling unmotivated in school activities, not wanting to get out of bed for any reason, weight loss because I was never in the mood to eat, and self-harm.

All of these feelings grew and grew back to back, which eventually resulted in me doing some really stupid things, like sleeping with someone like pain and always, smoking, drinking and just generally causing trouble.

I did all of it because I didn't know what to do with myself. I didn't want to take care of myself because I didn't care enough to. I felt like I wasn't worth it, and my performance was just my "fuck it, I'm not going to get it right the first time, what's the point?"

Depression can show itself through actions, but it can also just as easily come out as anger, irritability and general negativity from the person going through it.

I used to get into so many fights with my friends.

Being Superwoman —and doing it in style

Ruby Verdiano motivates young girls to seek inner beauty and develop a positive outlook in life by talking fashion and empowerment—in the same breath

By Vicky Herrera
Staff Writer

“Hi! I’m Ruby, glamorous girl off to change the world.” These words fill up the screen as her models strut, and as I read more about what this inspiring 17-year-old Filipino-Chinese fashionista is creating, I am moved to join her on her mission for empowerment and social change. But first, let me look down closely at what Ruby does.

Generally based in New York, Ruby is a online speaker, media personality, fashion blogger, model, author, and TV host for MTV’s The City series. She launched her writing empowerment program, The Glamazon Ruby (2013), like also wear her first book, Miss Universe. The young Ruby has touched many people with the girl of her words—inspiring them, motivating them, and providing vision for their life.

Ruby has traveled throughout the United States to speak to students, teachers, and parents, including a recent presentation to a group of young women at a local high school. In a room where beauty and fashion is a debate thousands of young girls, Ruby sets out to inspire them with a message of empowerment and social change.

Change is possible

When I meet Ruby, she was about to launch into a discussion on an event, “The Beauty of the Mind.” It was a discussion about how to work with a negative person, and do better than, at the end of the day, change is really possible.

She started talking with positivity and empowerment. How did you do that? It took a lot of time to cultivate that vision, and many people believe in it. It was a long journey, and it was such a challenge. In a young person, I really loved talking. When I moved to New York, what I realized was that the people creating really great things in fashion were from America, I realized. “Who are the ones creating the ‘super woman’?” It was Alexander Wang, Phillip Lim, and Derek Lam.

At the time then, when I was in college, I was really passionate about social change. I started off as a writer, as well. When I start of writing about social movements and different kinds of activism, I began to see my writing as a form of social change.

I asked myself, “How can I create these two worlds together?” I was a tag line, “Glamorous girl off to change the world,” and I was to be a role that she was to do.

So difficult for people to see the connection. I guess it’s because they’re used to the idea of “fashion” and “empowerment” as separate topics.

There are people who are using fashion as a means to represent a woman. When you look at designers like Thom Browne, you see a whole new way of seeing things that inspired women’s activism, like the first person. People don’t really realize that a pattern is a power statement. Fashion and social change have a much longer history.

There was a time I used to be Glamorous Ruby. I was the one who was the most glamorous. The one who was the most glamorous.

Spoken word and poetry

In the “Glamorous Ruby,” when people did not see her.

Mostly she and I, I used to go somewhere to talk about things that matter to them. In the United States, there is a really big thing with spoken word, poetry, and they don’t have to be in a room. It became so popular that it was in the classrooms. Spoken word is a way to express their ideas and their words. Poetry and spoken word are the same thing.

Tell us about your book “Miss Universe.”

I came out in 2006. I self-published the book. I completed my work, and was out. I was happy because when you’re surrounded by the people, they really want to see you succeed. There are people that come from my experience as a young woman. I named it “Miss Universe,” and people love it. “Oh, you’re so cute,” and I said, “That’s the point!”

I think young women were inspired to think of everything in life as it was a process, and the only thing that matters is what we want and how we present ourselves and our self-image. Changing all these insecurities and seeing them from my lens. I was really proud of it. It was a personal, but it was about those moments of a young woman’s struggle, and also about being a young woman in America.

Young women go through a lot of things to see, and we can’t blame them for that. That’s what the “Glamorous Ruby” is about. How do we embrace glass and be the woman? How do we see the woman of the future?

What’s the most meaningful thing about your job? Connecting with a lot of people. I met a lot of the girls I look up to. I feel like the most powerful thing is when you take care of it. I think of finding other people who have the same purpose. Because it’s not just about me, it’s about the people who are looking for a way to see themselves as a powerful girl and that’s really the thing. We do the best.

Face:

Prep skin for applying a primer. This will make your makeup go on better and last longer.

Give your skin a little more moisture by using a BB cream. BB cream for blemish-free skin. BB cream for blemish-free skin. BB cream for blemish-free skin.

Eyes:

For a natural look, you can use a light pink or peach eyeshadow. This will make your eyes look more natural and give them a little more moisture.

Follow up with a thin, fresh layer of mascara on your eyelashes, and apply two to three coats of mascara on eyelashes. This will make your eyes look more natural and give them a little more moisture.

Tips for wearing orange:

Don't go overboard. Focus on wearing orange in a subtle way. Don't go overboard. Focus on wearing orange in a subtle way. Don't go overboard. Focus on wearing orange in a subtle way.

Cheeks:

Lightly dust on the top of your cheeks and blend it with a clean brush. This will make your cheeks look more natural and give them a little more moisture.

Lips:

Looking for the perfect shade of orange lipstick? Look for a shade that is a little darker than your natural lip color. This will make your lips look more natural and give them a little more moisture.
